Question 1

Read the passage and answer the questions given below. (20 marks)

Networking as a concept has acquired what is in all truth an unjustified air of modernity. It is considered in the corporate world as an essential tool for the modern businessperson.

People can be divided basically into those who keep knowledge and their personal contacts to themselves, and those who are prepared to share what they know and indeed their friends with others. A person who is insecure, for example someone who finds it difficult to share information with others and who is unable to bring people, including friends, together does not make a good networker. The classic networker is someone who is strong enough within themselves to connect different people including close friends with each other.

It takes quite a secure person to bring people together and allow a relationship to develop independently of himself. From the non-networker’s point of view, such a development may be intolerable, especially if it is happening outside their control. Yet, most of the time, it the initiator of the contact who benefits most, because all things being equal, people move within circles and that person has the potential of being sucked into ever growing spheres of new contacts. It is said that, if you know eight people, you are in touch with everyone in the world.

Unfortunately, making new contacts, business or otherwise, while it brings success, does cause problems. It enlarges the individual's world. This is in truth not altogether a bad thing, but it puts more pressure on the networker through his having to maintain an ever larger circle of people. The most convenient way out is, perhaps, to cut ties with old contacts, but this would defeat the whole purpose of networking. Another problem is the reaction of friends and associates. Spreading oneself thinly gives one less time for others who were perhaps closer to one in the past. In the workplace, this can cause tension with jealous colleagues, and even with superiors who might be tempted to rein in a more successful inferior. Jealousy and envy can prove to be very detrimental if one is faced with a very insecure manager, as this person may seek to stifle someone’s career or even block it completely.
The answer here is to let one’s superiors share in the glory; to throw them a few crumbs of comfort. It is called leadership from the bottom. In the present business climate, companies and enterprises need to co-operate with each other in order to expand. Whilst people may rail against this development it is for the moment here to stay.

Question 2

Complete the following telephone conversation using appropriate expressions in the box given below.

A: "Good morning, this is Perera."

B:

A: "Hi Ms. Jayanthi. How are you doing?"

B:

A: "Thanks for returning my call. I called you earlier because there is a serious issue that I want to discuss with you."

B:

A: "Yes, it's a bit serious. I just couldn't figure out why the ending balance on fiscal year 2014 didn't match the beginning balance on of 2015."

B:

A: "The amount is exactly Rs. 10,500."

B:

A: "That makes sense. I'm just glad it wasn't out of my miscalculation. Can you send over the statements? I should be done by end of day since everything looks good."

B:
A: "Yes. That is the correct number."
B:

A: "Thank you for your help."
B:

A: "No problem. I am glad that we sorted the problem."
B:

A. "Don’t mention it. Well, have a good day, Ms. Jayanthi."
B.

- "Oh. I know what the problem is. We opened another bank account at the end of fiscal year 2014. I might not have included the new bank statements when I sent over the information."
- "Sure. I'll fax them to you immediately. Is 0113-904576 the number I should fax it to?"
- "Yes, me too. Thank you for drawing my attention to the mistake."
- "I'll do it right now."
- "When I checked, it was matching. How much is the difference?"
- "Good morning Mr. Perera, this is Jayanthi. I'm returning your call."
- "You are welcome, but I should have sent them over to you the first time. I apologize for that."
- "You too Mr. Perera. Bye."
- "A serious issue?"
- "I'm doing great thanks."
